

VANDALIA 4-H AFTER WIN AT GREAT WESTERN

VANDALIA - Vandalia 4-H club members will be going to the Great Western Exposition and Livestock show in Los Angeles November 8-14 with one big thought in mind - to make it nine straight wins for the club group of five steers.

For the past eight years, the Vandalia club has topped this class over all other clubs of California, and this year, as in the past winning years, it will be Hereford steers that will be called on to turn the trick.

Exhibiting at the 42nd annual Great Western from Vandalia will be: Jo Ann Purinton, a Hereford heifer and two steers; Jane Bennett, a Hereford steer; Richard Bennett, a Hereford and an Angus steer; Bill Bennett, pen of three Herefords; Patrick Bennett, a Hereford steer; Buck Bennett, a Hereford steer and a heifer; and John Bennett, a fat lamb.

Communists Encourage Anti-War Talk, Says Air Force Officer In Thailand

Following is a letter written by an Army Air Force officer who graduated from Porterville high school and who formerly made his home in the community and who is now on duty in Southeast Asia. Takhli, Thailand
19 Oct. 1967

We arrived up here the 12th of October. Takhli is a Royal Thai Air Force base. We have a detachment of the Strategic Wing with a part of the tanker force here all the time.

Generally, our mission is to give air refueling support to tactical fighter-bomber operations throughout Southeast Asia. Up here we support primarily the fighter - bombers that are having the greatest effect on the enemy in the area that is so controversial.

This base is much better than Atapao; it's a little more established with better facilities. We also are right here with the force that has the highest exposure, the ones you read about in the papers. I have made quite a few friends and renewed some old acquaintances here.

MARTINEZ NAMED FAIR DIRECTOR

PORTERVILLE - Jim Martinez, who showed beef cattle in the Porterville fair 20 years ago as a 4-H club exhibitor, has been named a director of the fair.

The appointment was made last week by members of the fair board, meeting in the Edison company electric living center. Martinez will continue to serve as livestock superintendent for the fair, a job he took over for the 1967 fair.

In other business of the meeting, directors named Bill Seratte as chairman of a "brighten up the fair grounds" committee; ap-

Volkswagen Agency To Be Opened By Bill Shepherd

PORTERVILLE - William Shepherd, Jr. will open an authorized Volkswagen sales, service and parts facility in Porterville October 30. The dealership will be known as Shepherd Volkswagen; its headquarters will be at 30 North Main street.

The new agency will become the 1,006 authorized VW dealership operating in this country. More than 420,000 new VW's were sold during the 1967 model year. California led all other states in sales and presently Volkswagen ranks as the third largest selling automobile in the state.

In joining Volkswagen, Shepherd brings 15 years of automotive experience with him. His most recent position was owner of Shepherd Chevrolet in Riverdale, California.

According to Shepherd, the location on Main street will be of a temporary nature. "Our future plans," he said, "are to construct a new facility here in Porterville and market our product with the same quality that the Volkswagen car itself is known for." Shepherd added, "it will be at least one year before a building program will begin."

The Shepherd family recently moved to Porterville and reside on W. Thurman street. Mrs. Shepherd (Mary Jo) is expecting to present the new VW dealer with their third child, an-

THE UGLY HEAD OF POLITICS

One man in the United States of America, apparently with the backing of President Johnson, has put the stopper, at least temporarily, on the development of Mineral King by Walt Disney Productions.

That man is Stewart Udall, Secretary of the Interior.

His reasons and motives - politics; politics in its poorest and most undesirable form.

The situation is this; Udall is the head man over the U. S. Park service. About eight and a half miles of the proposed new Mineral King road crosses a section of Sequoia National park. Udall has put out a directive that there is to be no further planning of the Mineral King road as far as the Park service is concerned.

This means the Mineral King project is at a virtual standstill.

When the U. S. Forest service published its prospectus in 1965 and accepted bids for development of Mineral King as a winter resort, as well as a year-around recreation center, there appeared to be agreement with all governmental agencies involved, including the Park service and the Department of the Interior, that this area should be developed as a joint venture - private enterprise capital to develop public lands in the public interest.

Things moved along smoothly for a time. The U. S. Forest service, the Disney people, the State of California, the State Highway department all co-operated, and all have met their obligations. The Park service went right along with the planning program.

Then a strange thing happened in California. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, was elected governor, and a definite Republican political trend developed throughout the state.

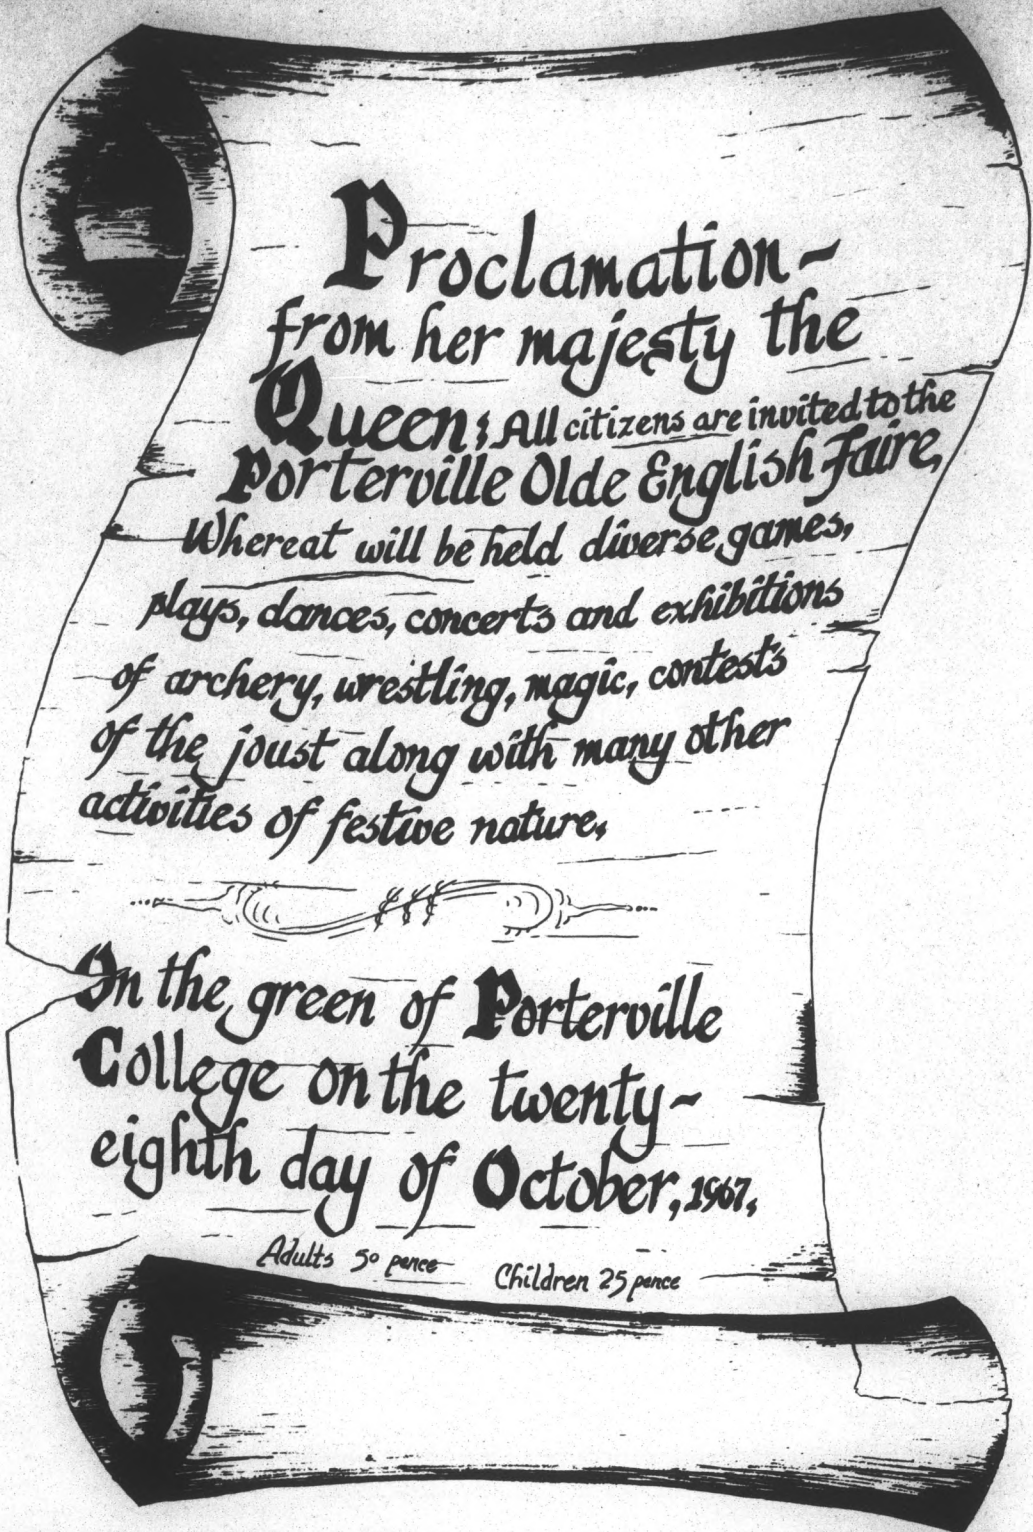

It was not long after that Udall began to back-track, even though it is the stated policy of President Johnson that a partnership between private enterprise and government is the desirable way to develop public recreation areas.

But, as the situation now stands, it would appear that Udall is going to do nothing that might bring credit to Reagan, or to any other Republican. And, among other things, he is trying to work a deal to trade creation of a Redwood park in northern California for approval of the road on which hinges development of Mineral King.

U. S. Senators Tom Kuchel and George Murphy; Congressman Bob Mathias; and other congressmen; California's governor; many state legislators; many cities and counties have expressed enthusiastic support for the Mineral King project.

But one man, because of politics, has been successful in blocking that project.

This is the American system operating at its poorest.

BY BILL RODGERS

TWO LETTERS! No. 1 is from William R. McGuire, director of finance for the city of Porterville. It's a form letter, addressed to "Dear Merchant" in which Bill lets it be known that some merchants are not correctly completing their business license application forms, an oversight that will result in a delinquent charge if continued. We suggest to Bill that he knock off this form letter business and deal directly with the offenders. We country boys and girls don't like blanket incrimination... 2. In a letter to the Porterville postmaster, a salesman protests the return of a sample that had been mailed to Steve's Drapery at the old business address. He says he thinks the postoffice should know where Porterville business firms of long standing are located and that the package should have been delivered, even with the old address. With this we agree. But we also believe that it behooves a representative of an out-of-town firm to know the address of his Porterville customers, particularly after the substantial lapse of time since addresses were changed in Porterville... What we don't understand is why we, The Farm Tribune, still get mail delivered that is addressed to 522 North Main, where we haven't been for seven years, but have mail returned to the sender when addressed to 80 East Oak where we now are, even though we use a postoffice box for our business mail address... Maybe the postoffice could do better in fulfilling its basic mission - to deliver the mail. And maybe we business people could do better by being a little more attentive to keeping our correct mailing address up-to-date in the files of firms with which we correspond.. Oh well, when postal employees get their pay raise and all of us start paying more postage, everything will be wonderful and beautiful again.

THEN THERE are those certain Porterville business firms that advertise "S&H Green Stamps Plus Cash! (New Kennedy Halves)" for free if your car license is listed among the week's Lucky License Winners... In case you haven't learned the game yet, you will get some S&H Green Stamps if your license comes up, but no cash, unless you fill out a card then spend your own cash in the amount of from $25 to $100 within the next 30 days... In the trade we call this misleading advertising - maybe even unethical advertising.

"Watch Your Heart" When You Open County Tax Statements Says Property Owners' Assn. President

PIXLEY - "If you have a weak heart, you'd better have a couple of doctors close by when you open the envelope containing your 1968 tax bill," warned Walter Caskey, president of the Tulare County Property Owners Assn., speaking October 17 at the Pixley Memorial building.

"Some of these bills are astronomical. But if you think this year is bad, next year will be even worse unless taxpayers and property owners rise up in protest, Caskey said.

"Our county budget this coming year is a staggering $45 million. It could have been $50 million if it hadn't been for the efforts of the TCPOA. Supervisors have openly stated this fact and they thanked us for the help we gave them in holding out for a more reasonable budget."

Caskey spoke to 85 farmers and businessmen from southern Tulare county who convened at the invitation of Bob Simeral of Pixley. Simeral's objective was to acquaint local people with the activities and policies of the TCPOA and to answer questions about the county tax problem which were in the minds of many business acquaintances.

As area director for TCPOA, Simeral chaired the gathering. Directors Les Guthrie and John Gibson attended from Porterville, while Harrell J. Harrell, Howard Weekly and Vernon Morris came down from Visalia. Milford Cook represented Three Rivers. Weekly is treasurer and Harrell is vice president of the group.

At the close of the meeting, it was proposed by Mrs. Ethel Prestage of Porterville that the November Director's meeting of the TCPOA be held in Porterville; TCPOA directors present agreed to the request and formal arrangements were initiated for Tuesday, November 7.

4-H DISPLAY AT KORNER CAFE

TERRA BELLA - Terra Bella 4-H club members placed a window display in the Korner cafe during observance of National 4-H week, illustrating the goals of a good 4-H club member, also club activities, projects and benefits. Members also attended church service in uniform in observance of 4-H Sunday.

that most city kids probably do not know exists, although one boy came up from Long Beach to compete, Sunday. Calf riding and steer riding are fun to watch, but the really amazing thing is the manner in which youngsters wheel those ponies through their paces in barrel racing and pole bending events... As for team roping, well, some of the 13-16 year old boys dropped their loops on those doggies just like rodeo pros... We saw only one thing that need correction. That metal barrel around which the hide racers go could become a lethal instrument if the hide rider was pulled in too close and rammed his head against the barrel. Why not use a cardboard barrel, or a roll of foam rubber?

AT A meeting of the Tulare County Property Owners association in Pixley the evening of October 17, Porterville was represented by two directors of the association, John Gibson, left, and Less Guthrie, right. In center, Walter Caskey, association president from Tulare, compliments Bob Simeral, association director, who set up and chaired the meeting.

With shortening days, holidays, stormy weather and other obstacles about to be thrown in your path it is best to enjoy your fall gardening and barbecuing. The mornings are brisk enough to shock you awake yet the evenings are pleasant for turning a steak or salting the hamburger.

We can't furnish the meat but we do have the world's finest charcoal. Commercial copy writers would say, "This is grown from natural oak trees in the smog free mountain valleys of beautiful Springville." Which it is. It starts easily, burns well, and only contributes a little bit to local smog.

For late fall gardening there are trees of gorgeous color, bedding plants about to bloom, and chrysanthemums of rare and beautiful color. Some look more like fall than the picture on your calendar. There are also bulbs to plant for spring flowers and enough other garden projects to make an appetite for the barbecue.

We're open seven days a week on "E" Street North of Olive and urge you to come visit us while the weather is so beautiful.

WHAT'S DOING?

It's not very surprising that with more than 200 coin phones in Porterville, Springville and Terra Bella, that once in a while one of them will go haywire and keep your dime when it shouldn't. And if this happens to you, all you have to do is dial the Operator from another phone and tell her what happened. She'll see that a refund is mailed to you, or if you wish, complete another call for you.

And, we'll appreciate it if you'll give the Operator the number of the phone that kept your dime so we can check to see if it needs to be repaired.

According to the way I heard it, a man went down to a bookstore to get a long-anticipated book that had just arrived and found people were actually standing in line for their copies. Then he got a bright idea... He walked out to the sidewalk and into a telephone booth in front of the store. He dialed the mail order section of the store and requested his book. When the clerk asked for the name and address, he said, "Don't bother sending it... just bring it to me out in front of the store!" Buying a book or whatever your shopping needs, I'm sure you'll find shopping by phone is time-saving and more convenient, and don't forget the handy Yellow Pages.

does make a difference.

FRIENDS OF Gang Sue, and persons associated with construction of his new addition, gathered in the Lantern room Friday evening to the sound of music and popping champagne

OUR TOWN

By Ruth Loyd

You know this being a famous columnist is hard work. Take last Friday for an instance. Gang Sue had a party to pre-view his new restaurant. Wheels were there from all over. Most of them trying to hold a chicken leg in one hand a glass of Champagne in the other. Gang and Violet had invited all the contractors and friends who had helped him make his "dream come true." The big Lantern Room was loaded. The orchestra was good, and Marty OUR TOWN'S "bon vivant" made good use of the dance floor. It was a lovely party, but I had to work. I followed my favorite editor around the room to get the names of the people he took pictures of. Excuse me. Of whom he took pictures. (Don't end a sentence with "of"). He took hundreds of pictures. What happened to them? Roy Hargett, of carpet fame, had his arm around his lovely Vivian so Bill took their picture. My husband had his arm around Bill's wife so that picture was taken. I tried to put my arm around Stan Noble, but he got away and put his arm around his Betty. Men don't like me. It was all very confusing. I had an awful time trying to get peoples' names, and by the time I did, Bill was across the room. He had a little trouble with his bulbs too. The Serattes got tired posing while Bill's bulbs failed to go off. Gang's lovely sister - in - law, Elsie came to wish him luck. Tim Sue was busy most of the night seeing that everyone got enough prime rib to eat; so pretty Esther sat and talked to Violet. Many of the things the decorator had planned were not quite finished. In the main entrance there will be a moon gate, complete with Chinese artifacts. The War Lords haven't arrived from Hong Kong. I do wish they would hurry. I want to see them. They certainly should be something, from what they cost. Can you IMAGINE? Someone has already slashed some of the beautiful chairs. I can't believe people can be so destructive.

Harold Johnson is going to landscape the buildings. Have you been out to see the Johnson Nursery? You go out Henderson until you can't go anymore, turn north, go a few miles until you get there. Harold and Pat have done wonders. It's a treat to just go out and look. They have taken an old barn and converted it into a delightful huge green-house. Up stairs they have a complete selection of artificial plants and lovely ceramics. I liked the Christmas trees in beautiful containers all decorated for Christmas. Downstairs are many plants and some bonsai trees that Harold is so interested in. Near their house is an Oriental Tea house where the Johnson's entertain their friends surrounded by cool plants and a darling pond. These young people have more ideas. It is really delightful.

Happiness is air conditioning for the police cars. It's awful getting a ticket from a warmed over policeman.

Panther Band Will Appear In Hollywood Event

PORTERVILLE - Porterville High School Panther band has accepted an invitation to appear in the Santa Claus Lane Parade of Stars in Hollywood on Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, November 22. The band has 120 musicians under the direction of Buck Shaffer; it is led by Tim Tandrow, drum major.

This is the thirty-sixth year for the Santa Claus parade which started in 1932, and through the years has seen the appearance of nearly all the great names in show business - motion pictures, television, radio and recording.

James Stewart, Academy Award Winning star, is slated to act as the Grand Marshal for the parade this year.

KTTV and KCOP will both broadcast the events from Hollywood boulevard in color for the full two hours of the parade which is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

The marching bands appearing in the parade are selected from more than 500 units in California and represent the finest young musical talent in the west. There are both high school and sponsored bands, with the latter representing various clubs or other organizations. In recent years, the addition of some of the outstanding Drum and Bugle Corps has added a special zest and fervor to the event when they play their stirring music.

As the parade committee considers all the bands tops in their field, they have no judging, but do present each organization with a handsome participation trophy as a memento of their appearance.

Time Out

JOHNCOCK LEADS IMPORTANT LAPS, POLLARD RUNS OUT OF GAS

Art Pollard had everything going for him. He had the pole position at the start of the California 200 in Hanford, Sunday, and he had the fastest car. His rear - engine Offenhauser packed all the gear as it walked away from the Ford - powered cars in the straight - ways, and such great racing names as A. J. Foyt, and Mario Andretti seemed to be along just for the ride. But the only thing certain about auto racing is uncertainty.

The tiny low - slung cars screamed around the pavement and Pollard pulled away, easily lengthening his lead as he came out of each turn. It became apparent very early in the race that the rest of the troops would have to be content with waiting for something to happen to the swift frontrunner. It did, but not until Pollard had dominated the race for 108 laps.

There are hundreds of ways to lose a race. Jim Malloy spun out in the first turn, Al Unser hit the wall in the first turn and smashed the front end of his car, and Andretti went into the infield, trying to miss the sliding Unser, damaged the front suspension of his car, and checked out for the day. Roger McCluskey hit the wall in the first turn, knocking the left front wheel off his beetle. But, Art Pollard, the front running speedster, ran out of gas. Just like Mom does, every week or so. He ran out of gas. I mean, it could have been any number of romantic, or glorious causes. The Flubal valve on the Lipwhich gear could have malfunctioned. But it didn't. He ran out of gas. It's like a knight pulling out of a joust with saddle sores.

Pollard slipped into obscurity and Joe Leonard roared to the front. All he had to do was sit it out for four more laps. But, in the middle of the first turn the little car slithered sideways, headed for the wall, caught itself and came out of the turn to find Gordon Johncock rocketing along in first place, John-cafeteria at Atapao and, I imagine, 90 percent of their business is hamburgers and French fries. I eat mostly rare meat on base. Off base the meat is not handled cleanly.

Johncock did not lead for very many laps, but he led the most important lap. The last one. It was worth more than $12,000 to him.

At Atapao sea food is abundant (right on the Gulf of Siam) and I enjoyed that very much.

Yesterday we refueled an airplane that later shot down a Mig 17, which you will have read about. I talked to the pilot last night. Of course that was the ultimate for a fighter pilot - to shoot down an enemy fighter. These fellows are truly professionals, although they have feelings.

The one thing they do not like to hear is the dissension of public opinion in America, or actually the fact that many people do not or cannot think clearly but only know "what they read in a paper." This is one big reason the conflict is still going on.

The North Vietnamese, Russians and Chinese Communists all listen intently to our press and public opinions, and they think this is an extremely unpopular war for the American people. They, of course, actively encourage anti-war campaigning and try to appeal to the pacifist feelings of the people - they say that everyone should live in peace.

That would be fine, but we would live under socialist communism.

If the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong think there is any chance of winning they will continue to fight. Their ideas of human life are not like ours; they do not need large volumes of war materials as long as they are encouraged by dissenting opinion and particularly such things as self-immolation on our side. They definitely see themselves as winning.

They think they proved a point with the French. When the people of France got tired of their war in Asia, it reflected all the way down to the Infantrymen, and the North Vietnamese capitalized on the situation at Dien Bien Phu and handed the French a resounding defeat. That was enough for France. No more support for that war.

I think if we were to move out of South Vietnam, communism would very quickly take over all of Southeast Asia, Australia, and New Zealand. If the United States cannot stop communism, surely no one else can.

I cannot tell you as much as I would like to, but I can tell you that everyone here wants to get this over with. They do not like to expose themselves each day and hear the politics that goes on back home. They believe in what they are doing here.

The countries that are directly affected here are not self-sufficient and actually enter into 80-90 per cent less engagements than our U. S. troops. This is blamed on their leadership which has too many political and bloodline commissioned officers, and not enough chosen by merit.

These are some of my pet peeves about this thing. I hope I didn't bore you.
